LAST-MINUTE PREPARATIONS SPEED EAGERLY AWAITED COOKING SCHOOL

Convention of Homemakers
Will Be Welcomed by
The News Feb. 22 in Antioch Theatre

"The best things in life are free!" And so is the Antioch News' fascinating and different Cooking School that is just around the corner, opening at two o'clock in the Antioch Theatre, Tuesday, February 22. Last-minute plans are being completed, even as this paper goes to press.

No opening bells will be needed for the eagerly-awaited, three-day school, brimming with novelty, romance and practical appeal, for advance indications point to a capacity convention of homemakers.

Men have their annual conventions, where they listen to lectures from experts who have devoted years to studying and experimenting along constructive lines. There the crowds of business men get a fresh viewpoint on their job, new ideas and enthusiasm to carry back to work.

Now comes this practical rally of homemakers to contribute fresh perspective for the "same old job", the monotonous day-in-and-day-out job yet the most important business in the world.

Experts Show the Easy Road
The feminine convention delegates may not pound on glasses and sing pep songs, but they will get up-to-the-minute news on every phase of household lore, and they will hear from specialists in their own field, who will direct an inventory on simplified methods, routine, products and latest equipment, pointing the easy road to smooth home management.

They may seem like a tall order for one motion picture, but this entertainment is no ordinary film.

True, it was cast, directed and filmed in a famed Hollywood studio, but it was assembled thoughtfully and patiently to bring more than passing amusement. Everyday happenings were dramatized in the sound plot. Behind the sparkling humor and suspense that are so necessary to screen stories, was a deliberate plan—an ambitious determination to carry instruction, inspiration and worthwhile home news to women in every community.

All Seats Are "Ring-side"
The camera and the home specialists got together on their vigorous investigation, and the Antioch News was quick to snap up the chance to offer the interesting result.

Never has the camera been more faithful than in this motion picture cooking school. Never has a model kitchen been portrayed so accurately and in such detail.

The camera took its time and it took its close-ups, so that every person in the Antioch Theatre will have a "large as life and twice as natural" view of each operation. There will be no "orchestra circle" at this entertainment since the back row guests of the Antioch News will have an equal chance to peer into the busy mixing bowl, watching the deft steps of measuring, creaming, sifting and

LEGION COMPLETES PLANS FOR DINNER- DANCE SATURDAY

Committee Expects Record
Crowd at Pasadena
Gardens

The Antioch American Legion Post today announced that all plans have been completed for the annual Washington Day dinner-dance to be given at Pasadena Gardens this Saturday night.

The committee headed by Past Commander Walter Hills reports an unusually large advance sale of tickets, and it is indicated that over 300 will attend. Hills is being assisted with the arrangements by members of the firing squad and the post color-bearers, making up a committee of 15 members.

Tickets have been forwarded to Legionnaires in Chicago, Evanston, Waukegan, Kenosha and other places, the committee said today.

The music for dancing will be by Smitty's orchestra of Grayslake, which has appeared here at many gatherings of the Legionnaires. Tickets are fifty cents per person for dinner and dancing, and the meal will be served any time during the evening, the committee said.

It looks like a big time at Pasadena Gardens Saturday night.

NO SHORTAGE OF CANDIDATES FOR PRECINCT JOBS

67 Candidates File Petitions
on Opening Day
Friday

Keen competition for control of the two major parties in Lake county was seen Friday when 67 candidates, 27 Republicans and 40 Democrats, filed petitions in the county clerk's office for precinct committeemen's posts. According to reports it has been many years since anywhere near that number of aspirants have filed their petitions on the opening day.

The unprecedented early filing of the 40 Democratic candidates, 11 of which are in competition with incumbent committeemen, indicates the anticipated fight for control of the party's central committee. The rift in the Democratic ranks, which was precipitated by the gambling purge launched several weeks ago by party leaders, is thought to be the cause of what is expected to become a heated battle for committee posts throughout the county.

Among the first to file were chairmen of the county central committees, Benjamin H. Miller, Libertyville 1, the Republican chairman; and Robert R. Bosworth of Deerfield 8, the Democratic chairman.

Although no Republican from Antioch township filed on the opening day, all three precincts were represented by Democratic entrants. They are Antioch 1, Einar Sorenson, Antioch 2, Charles Cernak, Jr., and Antioch 3, Henry V. Jackson and Joseph Klaus. The Republican incumbents in Antioch are expected to file their petitions for re-election before the final date on March 3. They are C. K. Anderson, precinct 1; James Stearns, precinct 2, and Al Friedle, precinct 3.

SON OF THE NORTH TO ADDRESS MEN'S CIVIC CLUB MONDAY

Harold D. Eide to Be Heard in Drama of the Frozen North

An evening of unusual adventure, a journey into the land of white silence, as told graphically in a story of high adventure in the far north, is in store for members of the Antioch Men's Civic club and their guests at the Episcopal church hall Monday night at 7 o'clock.

The speaker will be Harold D. Eide, explorer, gold miner, trader with Eskimos, adventurer, friend and assistant to such famous explorers as Amundsen and Nansen. He has spent 20 years in the great white Arctic. As a young surveyor, Eide took part in the building of the northernmost civilization in the world on Spitzbergen Island. He tells his experience there in a manner that keeps his audiences on the edge of their chairs throughout the lecture.

In his thrilling lecture entitled "Building a City in the Shadow of the North Pole," Eide tells of shipwrecks on the icy coast and the lonely first Christmas on top of the world. There are thrilling escapes from death and rescues beneath the northern lights. His story is filled with action, humor and stark tragedy, according to those who have heard and enjoyed the story of this son of the North.

The dinner will be served by the Guild society. Men of the community are invited.

"Some Baby" Is Coming to the Crystal Theatre

A fast moving comedy entitled "Some Baby," will be presented by the J. B. Rotnour Players at the Crystal theatre next Thursday night. The play relates the hardships of an old doctor who is about exhausted waiting for patients. He is about to give up all hopes when an idea comes to him and he begins the manufacture of a remedy called "the elixir of youth," and it brings results.

"FOREIGN" TRUCK CASES UP FRIDAY; SOME HAVE PAID

Eleven Defendants to Appear Before Magistrate Brook

Eleven defendants who were served warrants during the last ten days for violating Antioch's food truck ordinance will appear tomorrow morning in the court of Police Magistrate E. E. Brook at the Village Hall. The cases are set for ten o'clock.

Four of the firms who were served with warrants last week, have paid the required license fees and the cases against them were cancelled without the addition of court costs, Magistrate Brook said today.

Many of the larger companies continue to be among the "hold-outs," and it will not be known until the cases come up for trial just what procedure they expect to follow. It is indicated that if any fight is to be put up it will be by way of appeal to a higher court in which the constitutionality of the ordinance will be attacked.

ALIEN WANTS PAY FOR ATTENDING SCHOOL

Citizenship Classes to Start in Antioch and Lake
Villa This Week

"How much you pay me for to go to school?"

That was the question asked of William Morse, of Lake Villa, who was appointed recently by the Public Works Administration as chief instructor to conduct citizenship classes for aliens in Antioch and adjoining townships. The alien who asked the question has been a resident of Illinois for over 30 years and just for now to apply for citizenship. "Now he wants to be paid for going to school to learn the American way," Morse commented.

Thirty-four aliens have expressed their desire to become naturalized citizens and have registered in the citizenship classes, Morse announced today. In Antioch township there is an enrollment of 14, and in Lake Villa township 20 have enrolled.

Two Classes Weekly
According to the announced schedule, the classes will convene twice weekly in Antioch on Wednesday and Friday at the village hall at 6:30 and in Lake Villa on Tuesday and Thursday, also at the village hall there at the same hour.

Those attending who cannot speak English will be taught the language, and there will be a course in civics in preparation for the first test for citizenship, Morse said.

It is reported that there are about 50 unaturalized residents in Antioch township and some of the families have been receiving relief.

In some states where old age pension laws have been enacted, belated applications for citizenship are being denied by the courts.

LIST PERSONS WHO FILED INCOME TAX RETURNS LAST YEAR

The following persons receiving mail at the Antioch post office filed income tax returns last year for the taxable year of 1936, according to Postmaster James F. Foran, who received the list from the federal government for posting:

Antioch Honors Centenarian Today

Amid a profusion of flowers and gifts, and surrounded by her near relatives and friends, Mrs. Rockwell D. Emmons today is celebrating her one hundredth birthday. For 93 years she has been a resident of Antioch and has been in her present home at 393 Lake street for 45 years. She is the only resident of Antioch, so far as the records reveal, who has ever attained the age of 100 years. Her many friends are rejoicing with her over her rare achievement.

Dr. G. W. Jensen, Veterinary Chief, Attends State Meet

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Jensen left yesterday for Springfield where Dr. Jensen as president will preside over the 56th annual meeting of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical association, which is in session today and Friday at the Abraham Lincoln hotel.

Wives of the vets were invited this year, the same as last year, and the committee made elaborate plans for their entertainment while in Springfield. Today there was a luncheon and theatre party, followed by the banquet and dance tonight, featuring a de luxe floor show.

Dr. Jensen was elected president of the state association at the 55th convention held in Springfield last February.

Lake Co. Shrine Club Holds Valentine Party

One hundred and fifty persons including 24 from Antioch community attended the Valentine party given by the Lake County Shrine Club at the Deerpath Inn at Lake Forest Monday night.

Edwin Burgess was toastmaster at the dinner and addresses were made by Fred B. Swanson, president of the club, and Norman Kissick, recorder of Medinah Temple, who told of the organization's work in maintaining the Chicago hospital for crippled children.

One of the high spots of the evening was the entertainment furnished by Harry McEvoy, of Chicago, humorist, story-teller and magician, and said to be one of the few men who ever made the late President Calvin Coolidge laugh. McEvoy had a bag of stories and magic tricks that kept the crowd in a hilarious mood for over an hour.

Cards and dancing followed the dinner.

Former Antioch Coach to Address Lions Club

Gerald G. Reed, former athletic coach at the Antioch Township High school, and now serving in a similar position at the McHenry high school, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the local Lions club at Antioch hotel on the evening of February 28 at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Reed spent several months in European countries last year, and his talk on conditions in foreign countries will be timely and of great interest.

HOMER S. STEVENS BURIED HERE MONDAY WITH MILITARY RITES

Last of Civil War Veterans;
Served with Wisconsin
Troops, '62-'65

Homer Shepard Stevens, 94, the last of the civil war veterans in Antioch township, was buried here Monday with military honors. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. C. at Strang's funeral home, and Henslee and the local Masonic lodge the Antioch American Legion post had charge of the burial in Hillside cemetery, where the local post's firing squad gave the final salute.

Mr. Stevens was born at Antioch August 19, 1844, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Stevens. At the age of seven he was left with relatives and his parents joined the "forty-niners" in the gold rush to California, where both of them died.

It was while he was working with an uncle, Hamilton Stevens, at Fish Creek, Wis., that he enlisted at Marinette, Wis., for service in the civil war at the age of 18. He was assigned to Company F, 12th Wis. infantry, serving with this company until the close of the war. He was mustered out May 15, 1865, at Madison, Wis. He came to Waukegan to reside and in 1873 was married to Susan Jenkinson.

Four sons were born to them—George, Jesse, Edward and Ralph. Jesse and Edward survive. He also leaves four grandsons.

The aged veteran died in Milwaukee Feb. 11, following several months of illness during which time he was confined to a hospital.

Salem Center P. T. A. To Present Play

A three-act play entitled, "Her Emergency Family," is to be presented by the Salem Center Parent-Teacher association at the Salem hall on Friday evening, Feb. 25. Those who have seen the rehearsals declare that the troubles of a too wealthy aunt are portrayed in realistic manner by the following cast: Mrs. E. Manning, Mrs. H. Krahn, Mrs. E. Kaphengst, Mrs. G. Dix, Glenn Griffin, Byron Patrick, Homer Payne, Willis Griffin, Rose Marie Jellhofer and Mrs. F. Richards.

The Salem Center P. T. A. invites everyone to come and see this delightful farce comedy.

MRS. SARAH EMMONS CELEBRATES 100 TH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Friends and Organizations
Pay Tribute to Centenarian

Mrs. Sarah Emmons of Antioch is one hundred years old today, and the only person of record in this village to attain a life span of a century.

Seated in her wheel-chair to which she is confined most of the time, Aunt Sarah today smilingly greeted her many friends who called to offer congratulations, flowers, cakes and a profusion of other gifts. Despite her 100 years Mrs. Emmons still retains a keen interest in life and in today's news. She reads and converses with friends, and enjoys listening to the radio.

Came to Illinois by Boat
Mrs. Emmons first saw the light of day in Syracuse, New York, on February 17, 1838, when Martin Van Buren had just taken over the presidency of the United States. Only seven presidents had been elected before the birth of Mrs. Emmons.

She came to Antioch at the age of 4, making the trip from the Empire state with her parents by boat to Illinois. Her husband was formerly postmaster in Antioch operating the service in connection with his general store. The family home was located on the present site of the Antioch Oil company at Lake and Main streets. She now resides at 393 Lake street, where she has lived for 45 years.

Recalls Early Days
"Aunt Sarah" Emmons has seen almost a century of local history in the making. She recalls the early days of Chicago, which was nothing but a marshland and considered practically worthless in her girlhood days. She saw Antioch as a few scattered houses along the Sequoit creek long before the town had a name.

She has accepted a changing world philosophically, is generous to the youth of today, and believes in useful work for all.

Present at the Emmons home today are "Aunt Sarah's" two daughters, Miss Alice, and Mrs. L. B. Grice; and the aged lady's sister, Miss Ella Ham, 92, of Marengo, Illinois.

Village Board Sends Greetings

Besides the many friends who individually paid tribute to Mrs. Emmons today, several organizations joined in sending greetings and gifts in token of esteem and in recognition of her unusual achievement. Among them were the Antioch Lions Club, headed by Ed Vos, and the Lake County Shrine Club, represented by its president, Fred B. Swanson. Once before, the county Shrine club paid tribute to Antioch's first citizen, on the occasion of Antioch's centennial celebration last September 15 when the parade headed by the Shriners marched to the Emmons home, and Noble Case L. Griffith, Potentate of Medinah Temple, made the presentation of flowers and posed with Mrs. Emmons for the photographer.

LAKE REGION POST PLANS PATRIOTIC PROGRAM AT FOX LAKE

The Lake Region Post No. 703 of Fox Lake is the sponsor of a special patriotic program to be presented on Washington's birthday, Tuesday evening, Feb. 22, at 8 o'clock at the Grant Community high school.

The program is under the direction of the Americanism committee of the Legion and they have secured the services of some outstanding speakers for the occasion. These include Rev. Joseph M. Lonergan of Menominee, Illinois, past state chaplain and past national chaplain of the American Legion; also there is a chance that Charles W. "Daddy" Schick, former commander of the Great Lakes Naval Training station during the world war, will be present. There will be special music.

The public is most cordially invited to attend. There will be no charge of any kind.

Teacher Gives Valentine Party at Grass Lake School

Children at Grass Lake school enjoyed a Valentine party given by their teacher, Miss Stratton, Monday afternoon. Betty Meyer reports that "we all had a good time playing games and winning the prizes. We also made up a basket for one of the little boys who had his tonsils out."

Curing Cancer with Patent Medicine

As outstanding economists have pointed out, the undistributed profits tax has probably done more than anything else to prevent investment and industrial expansion, promote unemployment, and force the business slump. A close second in its adverse effect on the nation is the capital gains levy, which has caused hundreds of millions of dollars to become frozen in tax-exempt securities, or in non-productive bank accounts.

Measures have now been offered Congress in an attempt to do something about these dangerous, depression-making taxes. While the motives behind them are doubtless good, the measures themselves are on a par with attempting to cure cancer with a patent medicine.

The proposal affecting the undistributed profits tax would exempt all corporations earning $25,000 a year or less. However, large business furnishes the bulk of employment in this country, the bulk of dividends, the bulk of regular taxes, and the bulk of opportunities for capital investment. The measure would give these businesses practically no relief whatsoever. It is reliably estimated that 14 or 15 per cent of the corporations listed in this country provide 85 per cent of all corporate employment. No revision of the undistributed profits tax that does not remove the punitive burdens placed against mere size can be of material service to recovery.

The pending measure dealing with the capital gains tax is similarly ineffective. It makes very slight concessions over the existing law, and would be of almost no influence in releasing frozen money into productive industry and private employment. In brief, the menace that is implicit in these two taxes cannot be eliminated without either outright repeal or radical revision.

Government by Spite

Save as a political red herring the President's extreme attitude toward the utilities has never made sense. At the present time it is as damaging to labor as it is to every one else. The President is surely not going to insist that the nation spiral downward into a prolonged depression; yet a death sentence upon the utilities can look in no other direction. The only reasonable explanation is to classify his stand with his other intensely personal actions which have cut across every principle of policy and self-interest and to ascribe it to some deep-seated prejudice.

The point seems to us important. For, as the Supreme Court battle disclosed, neither Congress nor the country relishes government by spite. If no one loves a utility neither does anyone like Presidential actions to be the product of sheer wilfulness. We hope that the President's latest descent to the level of personal rule will receive the rebuff in Congress that it deserves.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Deliberate Destruction of Private Property

If government officials were authorized to visit the homes of 200,000 American citizens and callously confiscate or destroy furniture, radios, food, clothing, the family automobiles and anything else that came under their hands, there would be an indignant uprising. The nation would forthrightly demand repeal of the law permitting such an outrage.

And yet, as incongruous as it may sound, this is, in effect, exactly what is happening in the struggle between the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation. The effect of the political drive for government ownership of electric power is to undermine and destroy the private electric properties in the Southeast by means of subsidized, tax-free, unregulated competition. It is on the verge of "success" for the simple reason that no private enterprise can compete in business against government.

And now, "as a last resort in a desperate situation" the President of Commonwealth and Southern has offered to sell the properties of his company affected by TVA, as integrated systems to the government or the individual states in which the systems operate. Government spokesmen have so far indicated no willingness to purchase the entire properties of individual operating electric plants. Instead they simply wish to purchase the best parts of certain companies and leave the rest to struggle along as best they can like a crippled horse. Utterly no consideration is given to the more than 200,000 persons whose hard-earned savings are invested in the securities of the companies affected.

This may be within the letter of the law, but wherein does it differ in principle from entering a man's home and confiscating his personal belongings?

Jobs Decline, Dole Increases

The Portland, Oregon, sawmills have been just about ruined by nearly six months' shut-down due to causes beyond their control—warfare for supremacy between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. Wages, hours or working conditions were not in dispute.

While thousands of men are kept out of waiting jobs in the mills, newspaper headlines show relief and WPA rolls increasing.

What irony! Legitimate jobs go begging, industry is crippled and the public is forced to maintain relief payrolls so that labor radicalism may flourish!

And another item to show how normal business is disrupted comes from the state utility commissioner for Oregon who has released figures showing that the private electric utilities of Oregon have a construction program for 1938 of $3,864,695. This is far short of the annual expenditures for the years from 1925 to 1930.

Private development of the power resources of Oregon has been discouraged by the Federal government's spending of millions of dollars of public funds at Bonneville and Grand Coulee, building tax-exempt power plants. If this additional electric horsepower had been added by private companies, as it normally would have been, the state, counties and school districts would have been richer by many millions of taxable assets.

And so it goes whenever private industry is crucified—jobs decline and doles increase.

Of course the administration will cooperate with business. It will even throw in a kick in the pants for good measure.

With Robertshaw Oven Heat Control
To operate America's finest gas ranges

Your kitchen can be as modern, beautiful and efficient as that of the newest and most costly modern home. A Dri-gas-Roper Range - with a wealth of features to make your kitchen toil less arduous - is yours as part of a Dri-gas System. With it you have intense, clean heat, under absolute control of your finger tip. Yes, the same kind of cooking convenience you have envied your city sister's having, may now be yours.

Yours at Low Cost, on Easy Terms

Priced so reasonably that any family can afford it - operates so economically you can compare costs with any fuel . . . and on terms to suit your pocketbook. Your old-fashioned electric, coal, oil or kerosene stove in trade.

HERE IS EXACTLY WHAT DRI-GAS IS

Purest natural gas, compressed in sturdy steel cylinders - installed safely outside your home so that you - no matter how you live miles beyond the mains - can have gas for cooking, cleaning, heating, hot, controllable - Dri-gas is odorless and non-asphyxiating. Bears Underwriters' National Laboratories "A" rating. You OWN your Dri-gas System. No lease, minimum guarantee, rent or service charges. Try it - you'll find its convenience and efficiency a revelation.

thorough mixing, not overlooking the final work of baking, roasting, French frying or freezing.

Husbands May Come, Too
For this is no half-hearted demonstration. Each delicious dish will be completed and shown with such realism that there are sure to be hungry "ohs" and "ahs" from the audience. If any stray husbands get into the theatre they are sure to ask: "When do we eat?"

Troubled by left-overs? Haunted by never-ending jobs? Tired of housework that seems like drudgery?

The cure: New wrinkles will smooth the brow of the weary housekeeper; that is, new housekeeping wrinkles leading to economy in time, effort and dollars.

Not only does this picture show new dishes, styles and interesting ways to serve everyday meals and party feasts, but it demonstrates how to make intelligent use of the ingenious mechanical servants that take the guess work out of housework.

All Fun, No Formality
To the fun of watching an expert cook at work in a model kitchen is added the joy of studying the practical possibilities of such full time servants as an electric refrigerator, a smartly styled range, and other cooking accessories and convenient laundry equipment, designed to take the gloom out of Monday.

There is nothing formal about this screen cooking school. Informality, hospitality and neighborly welcome are joined in the picture, meaning that a good time will be had by all, as the saying goes.

What about recipes? Naturally every guest of the Antioch News will want to test these tantalizing cures for menu monotony. Free recipe sheets will be distributed daily. And other things will be given away—valuable gifts that will find long and useful life in many a home.

Guests at the school will want to meet and remember the friendly local firms and nationally known products that are helping the Antioch News in this community undertaking. Participating in the Cooking school are:

Lever Bros. Co.; Pillsbury Flour Mills Co.; Fruit Dispatch Co.; Knox Gelatine Co.; Thomas J. Lipton Co.; Robertshaw Thermostat Co.; Dodge Automobile Co.; Frigidaire Corporation; Carey Electric & Plumbing Shop, Antioch; Dal-Ray Grocery, Antioch; Hachmeister's Quality Market, Antioch; Refrigeration Sales and Service, Waukegan; Antioch Theatre.

Does your house run you? If so, why not accept the Antioch News' invitation to join the neighborhood Cooking School party, starting next Tuesday at the Antioch Theatre.

Remember the dates and opening hour, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 2:00 P. M. each day.

Antioch, Ill.—Ela high school's powerhouse cagers, the Northwest conference representatives from Lake Zurich, are the basketball champions of 1937-38! This honor was officially accorded the Ela quintet when they straight win Friday and removed any remote possibility of having second place Leyden from Franklin Park overhaul them.

While the basketball crown and laurels of the current campaign were generously heaped on Ela, Grant high school broke even in a twin bill with Antioch's Sequoia here Friday evening. The Bulldog lightweights achieved an impressive 31-15 win over the Sequoia quintet behind the effective scoring of Bud Anderson. However, Antioch's varsity aggregation, with Osmond breaking the path with a big hatchet, butchered the Grant heavyweights 37-19.

Negotiations are underway to secure a publisher for the high school annual. Contracts have been dispatched to various concerns in the immediate vicinity.

An Illinois Invitational Boxing Tournament will be held March 19 and 20 at Morton high school in Cicero. Mentor Orr has assured this reporter that Grant will be represented by a full squad in the meet.

The Grant high school boxing team will make a return engagement at the North Chicago, Ill., Veterans' Home March 3. The pugilists were enthusiastically received two weeks ago when they gave exhibition matches. Grant's band will accompany the boxing contingent.

Grant High school's basketball team will launch its bid for the Illinois prep basketball title on Wednesday, February 23, when it plays Richmond high at Wauconda in the first contest of the Wauconda district tournament. The winner of the Richmond-Grant clash will engage Antioch. It will take three days to eliminate all teams.

The sympathy of this department is extended to Mrs. John Stanton, mother of Harriet and Dorothy of Grant typing team. Mrs. Stanton has been critically ill in a hospital.

Grant's affirmative debate team will encounter the negative squad of Leyden high school at Franklin Park this Friday afternoon. Coach John Christ and members of the local negative organization will be in attendance.

CREATIVE ABILITY REVEALED IN REPORT ON FARM PROJECTS

38 Antioch Boys Gross Total of $5,750 for Ag. Products

Creative ability in devising and conducting their work was shown in the report of 38 vocational agriculture students of the Antioch Township High school who completed 45 farm projects during 1937. The projects brought a total return of $5,741.27 and the expense of conducting them totaled $3,042.89, leaving the earnings at $2,698.38.

Greatest production was made by poultry projects. The kind of projects and the value of the products follows:

Poultry	$2,455.23
Corn	1,190.90
Dairy	1,025.57
Sheep	371.25
Beef	310.93
Garden	206.54
Potatoes	108.75
Soybeans	51.90
Hogs	20.20

These boys' ages vary between 13 and 18 years. They conduct farm projects under supervision of their Vocational Agriculture instructor, keep records and report their results to the State Board of Vocational Education at Springfield.

Thirty-one of the 38 boys exhibited livestock, poultry or crops at one or more shows.

According to C. L. Kutil, instructor of the Vocational Agriculture Dept. of the local school, the supervision of these projects required 216 visits to the boys' farms.

For the 1938 season forty-seven boys are working on fifty-three projects. Prospects look bright for a busy season and some fine livestock is expected to be exhibited at the fairs next summer and fall.

STYLE SPOTLIGHTS LADY WITH CURVES

Followers of Mode Must Become Corset-Conscious.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

During the past decade the mature woman bemoaned the fact that all fashions were designed for those slim young things with a lot of bones and no curves. Today fashion spotlights the figure with curves, and the woman of forty-ish trend comes to the center of the style stage. Paris is now designing clothes for the ladies with curves, tall young ladies and ladies not so young nor so tall who are faced with the problem of making their figure look curved and long at the same time. Wherefore if we would be followers of the mode it needs must be that we become more corset and corsetette-conscious than heretofore.

The curved figure must consider the fastening of the corset, and the slide fastener is the solution to a smooth, fluid line. In the newest glove-fit corsetette the skirt fastens side front with a slide-fastener over which the top hooks to give an extra nip-in at the waistline.

The favorite material of the modern corsetette is silk batiste with Alencon lace top and two-way stretch back. Bones are never used in the back of the glove-like fitting corset for flattening, because, as a woman sits, the bones are bowed and this bow remains when the woman stands, giving her an awkward silhouette. Instead, by clever designing the up and down stretch does the flattening without any uncomfortable boning. Seeing that to arrive at the correct figure it is absolutely essential that one be carefully corseted, the parting word is: "Lady, see to it that you become properly corset-minded."

Fireworks Sequins

The red and blue and green sequins that flash their brilliant color so dazzlingly as they cluster designfully on this season's little jackets and especially as trimming on black backgrounds are appropriately called fireworks sequins.

COMPLEXION CONSCIOUS? "USE MAKE-UP," HOLLYWOOD ADVISES, "BUT"....

Here's Hollywood's Inside Story on How to Keep Skin Smooth

Ever wonder what caused that tiny little blemish, those enlarged pores, that dull, lifeless look your mirror shows? Did you ever think it might be your own fault that your skin isn't as lovely as you'd like it to be?

It's true that if you don't remove cosmetics thoroughly, if you let hidden traces of stale rouge and powder, dust and dirt remain in your pores to choke them—you may be, all unconsciously, spoiling your own looks.

A Simple Beauty Hint

You don't find screen stars taking such chances with their skin. Smooth skin's too important! The picture at right shows Joan Blondell, the charming Warner Brothers star, using Hollywood's favorite beauty care—soap and water. It's a special soap, of course. The soap 9 out of 10 lovely screen stars use to keep skin flawless. And Joan Blondell tells you why you ought to use it:

"Use rouge and powder all you like. I do. But be sure to remove them thoroughly with Lux Toilet Soap," this lovely star says. "It's foolish to take chances with Cosmetic Skin—dullness, tiny blemishes, enlarged pores. Lux Toilet Soap has an ACTIVE lather that prevents choked pores, keeps skin smooth and soft. I always use it!"

Lucky the girl who knows that this simple beauty care, followed regularly, really works! This beauty soap is priced to fit any woman's budget. And yet she can depend on it absolutely to keep her skin smooth and clear.

Bath Luxury à la Hollywood

Where's the girl who won't want to try a beauty bath that's luxurious, but inexpensive? Hollywood has found it. Screen stars use for their beauty bath the same soap that guards their priceless complexion.

You'll find, as Hollywood does, that Lux Toilet Soap's ACTIVE lather removes perspiration, dust and dirt from the pores, keeps skin sweet. In this way it makes you sure of daintiness—and daintiness pays!

MOUNTAIN OF DISHES WASHED EVERY YEAR BY AVERAGE HOUSEWIFE

IF ALL the dishes, pots and pans that the average housewife washes during the year were piled in a heap they would make a mountain several hundred feet high. This tremendous task is not only a burdensome duty, but many beauty experts claim that it is the cause of most red, rough and old-looking hands.

As a result of widespread investigation it was discovered that housewives desire a soap that makes suds energetic enough to get rid of every trace of grease in double-quick time, yet gentle enough to keep hands smooth, soft and white. Millions of women have discovered that the New Improved Rinso combines these two important qualities. It gives richer, livelier suds that get dishes, pots and pans sparkling clean. And it is as kind as ever to the hands.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Bryn (James Brynildson III), a tall, bronzed young man of wealth, and his chum, Tubby Forbes, are discussing Bryn's coming marriage. Tubby is opposed to the match, believing it a scheme to get Bryn's wealth from him. Should the girl, Deborah, whom Bryn had met at the office of his attorney, Ted Holworthy, marry Stuart Graham before her twenty-first birthday, she will inherit a vast fortune from her grandfather. Stuart had greatly displeased Deborah, who refused to marry him. Bryn, posing as an unemployed engineer, offers to marry Deborah, as Stuart, for $50,000, they not to live as man and wife. Twenty-three years previous, Anne Larned had eloped with an adventuress on the day set for her wedding to Courtney Graham. Two days after the birth of her daughter, Anne died. Shortly after, the father was killed in an accident. The Larneds, grandparents, took the child with them to Oregon where, without child companions, Deborah grew up. To safeguard her from some fortune hunter, her grandfather had arranged for her to marry Stuart, son of Courtney Graham, when of age, believing the alliance would be a happy one. When Deborah was fifteen, her grandfather died. Securities had been set aside to keep the family, but a market crash left scarcely enough for them to live on. This was unknown to Deborah's grandmother, an invalid, Gary, a servant, managing the finances. At twenty, the thought of marriage greatly frightens Deborah. It had been planned that Deborah meet Stuart in Frisco, where they were to be married.

CHAPTER II

Tubby had finally finished dressing, and now, after a hurried trip across the city in Bryn's roadster, they stood waiting in the big parlor of one of the old and eminently respectable hotels. Age had not added to its prestige; it had gained nothing, through the passage of years, save a few extra layers of dust in the interiors of the sagging red plush chairs, a few more cracks in the elaborately frescoed plaster walls, a few more worn places in the thin carpet. Tubby, hands in pockets, stared unseeing at the candle sconces on the wall, fitted now with weary electric bulbs which gave out barely enough light to disclose the dangling crystal ornaments on the sconces themselves.

The grandfather clock in the corner ticked slowly.

"You're crazy," Bryn murmured, and took out his watch.

"Me?" Tubby asked in amazement and sat down in a comfortable chair.

"The clock. It's slow. My watch says ten minutes to nine."

"Oh. So you were talking to the clock?"

"Merely a slip."

"Slip is right," Tubby muttered.

"Talking to clocks!" Tubby went so far as to say that if Bryn, at the age of six, had not fallen upon him violently one day as they rolled off a roof together, he would not have bitten the end of his tongue and so begun a lip which would endure to his dying day.

"There isn't Any Reason Why I Should Do It."

"Tubby, it's right," Bryn repeated absently to himself. "Talking to the clock."

"Go to hell," Tubby said bitterly. He folded his hands before him.

There was a long silence.

"Bryn," Tubby said abruptly, and stopped.

"Tubby," Bryn answered politely.

"Bryn, what are you doing it for?"

"There isn't any reason why I shouldn't do it."

"Well," Tubby exploded, "you're not getting anything out of it. That's what I mean. You're getting into an awful mix-up with all kinds of possible consequences, and you're not getting anything out of it."

"Consequences?"

Tubby still sat in the big chair and considered, his blue eyes on Bryn's gray ones. "Pillar, for one. You'd make a very nice couple. That is..."

"Pillar would make a nice couple with anybody. And we've settled about her, so don't go back over that again, Tubby. Only there's a suggestion I'd like to make. If I were you I wouldn't rush over to Pillar's tonight right after the ceremony, because if you were to get down on your knees in my pants there would certainly be a catastrophe."

He stopped in front of the grandfather clock and gazed earnestly into its dingy face until Tubby had stopped making his spluttering noises. There was another long silence. Seven minutes to nine.

"What about this sailor, this Graham fellow?" Tubby demanded abruptly. "Do you think he's going to let any man crack him in the jaw and then marry his girl without doing anything about it? What about him?"

"Oh, he's all right," Bryn said lazily. "His enlisted time doesn't expire for two months. And he isn't much to worry over, anyway."

"Oh, Lord," Tubby said prayerfully, and put his head in his hands. Bryn went over and sat down beside him. He twined the yellow lock. "The whole trouble with you, Tubby, is that you're one of these sermons-in-stones people. I mean, you can't help looking for trouble. Why can't you take a thing at its face value and stop worrying? All that's happening is that I'm lending my name and my charming personality..."

"because I have to win over the grandmother, too, perhaps I forgot to mention it..."

for a year. What's a year? The last pair of elephant tusks I brought home cost me a year, and I've been sick of the darn things for a long time. After all, an elephant tusk is not exactly a thing a man wants to look at more than two or three times a day, and it isn't a thing you ever get really fond of and like to cherish, you know."

Tubby raised his head. "Oh," he said ominously. "So you're planning to cherish this Deborah woman and get fond of her, are you? Now that I understand why you're marrying her, do you mind telling me why she is marrying you? It doesn't work both ways, you know. It couldn't be, even if it's what I'm beginning to think it might be."

"But I told you why she's marrying me," Bryn said kindly. "I really explained it very nicely. She's marrying me to get a million dollars, one year from today when the conditions of the will are fulfilled and when her grandmother is convinced that I am no fortune-hunter and that I am a steady going young gentleman with no bad habits and the ability to make Deborah happy."

"Oh, no, she isn't," Tubby contradicted.

"Isn't she?"

Tubby straightened. He put his hand on Bryn's arm. "Look here, Bryn," he said, "what's the use of your trying to hold out on me? Why don't you come across with the whole story? I know what it is, anyway. It's another of those crazy quixotic notions of yours. What are you trying to put over now?"

"Nothing."

"You lie. The girl can't be marrying you to get her grandfather's money, because you're not Stuart Graham, and you said yourself that the will stated specifically that unless she married Graham and Graham only, on or before her birthday—today—she wouldn't get the money. Didn't you? And you're not Graham."

"Well," Bryn said at last, "not specifically. Not very specifically. I've read quite a few legal documents..."

this was a ferociously legal document, Tub, with a lot of whereases and inasmuchases and party-of-the-second-parts, and that kind of thing. If Deborah's grandfather hadn't told me what it was that he intended, I wouldn't have been too sure."

"But is it ambiguous, after all the fuss? Why make a will like that and leave it ambiguous? Can the girl get around it? Marry anybody at all and still get the money?"

"Well," Bryn admitted slowly, "no."

"No? No? But..."

"But we told her she could. I told her. Holworthy told her. Of course, if she's gone off and tried marrying anyone else, he'd have been forced to explain to her that on second reading..."

and so on."

"So," Tubby said with the manner of a talkie villain.

"Well," Bryn said for the third time, "what of it? It gets her out of a jam, doesn't it?"

"And you pay over a million of your own dollars at the end of a year, and she gives you fifty thousand for your services. Is that the way it works, noble Sir Galahad?"

"Oh, I don't know. I think we can break the will. Holworthy's going to do his damndest. And if he can't..."

well, the money means quite a bit to her. If—when you meet her you'll understand a little better, Tub."

"Humph," Tubby said.

They both stood up. Bryn looked at his watch. Ten minutes past nine. The grandfather clock choked, muttered, cleared its throat and gasped out that it was nine o'clock.

"Just the same," Tubby said explosively, shaking down his trouser leg. "Just the same, a year is too long. An ignorant, unsophisticated, dowdy backwoods country girl, who's never been anywhere or seen anything... milk and water, as uninteresting... after Pillar..."

"Sh!" Bryn said quickly. He took three steps toward the door at the end of the long room. Tubby stood up, too. The door was opening.

A tall gentleman in black pushed the door open and held it. Behind him came Mr. Holworthy, his smile astonishingly serene and content. For years Mr. Holworthy had guarded Bryn's interests with the stern fidelity of the dragon who guarded the Golden Fleece; yet here he was, calm and undismayed, lending his arm and his moral support to this menace to Bryn's peace of mind, this girl who could wreak the most dire havoc in Bryn's affairs.

Tubby looked at the girl. He choked. Bryn stood without moving.

She was finishing a remark to Mr. Holworthy as she came through the door on his arm. Tubby did not hear the words, but he caught the melody of her voice. It was like that of a very young child, with an appealing break in it; one thought of small birds learning to sing, of hyacinths in spring gardens, of silver bells at twilight.

She was a very small girl as she stood hesitantly there. A very small girl, and she was dressed in white. Her skirt was so full that it stood around her in a circle, and only the tip of one tiny white slipper could be seen below it. She held it off the dusty carpet with the tips of careful fingers. The bodice was slim and pointed, and her waist could have been spanned by a man's two hands. There were little puffed sleeves below her white shoulders; the neck of the dress was low, and above it her throat was creamy white and soft. She had pinned rosebuds against it in front, after a hasty, flushed look into the mirror, and they lay pink and fragrant against her delicate flesh. Around her neck was a short strand of tiny pearls, and from her ears hung little round pearl drops. She looked like a miniature of one's grandmother, painted on her wedding day.

And her face?

A small white oval face, without a hint of color in the cheeks, but with a pair of the softest, reddest lips in the world. They were the kind of lips which look like the bud of a red rose when they say "no" and there was something about the firm little round chin which suggested that she might often say "no." Eyes like purple pansies, soft and velvety and dark; and as if eyes and lips and tiny hands in white lace mittens were not enough, her hair was of red gold, curling and breaking into a million misty tendrils around her face.

Tubby looked at Bryn. He drew a deep breath. "Noble Sir Galahad!" he said under his breath, and moved forward to be presented.

Hybrid Corn Leads in State Field Test

According to Bulletin No. 440 on Illinois Corn performances for 1937, which has just been released by the University of Illinois, Iowa Hybrid AQ Hybrid Corn leads all other varieties of Hybrids in the State. The test was conducted in the North and North Central part of Illinois. This AQ Hybrid corn placed first in general performance in these tests because of its high yield, erect plant, and strong condition of the corn at time of harvest. Iowa Hybrid AQ Hybrid is strictly a drought resistance corn, which accounts largely for its performance in these tests.

For those interested in these comparison tests on Hybrid corn, we suggest you contact the Farm Bureau or write direct to the University of Illinois for Bulletin No. 440 on Corn tests.

Iowa Hybrid AQ Hybrid Seed Corn is produced by the Michael-Leonard Seed Company of Chicago and distributed locally by the Lake-Cook Farm Supply Company.

We got a letter from Marjorie MacLaren, who has been in Florida since January. She wrote about the different places she has been in.

We had our Valentine party Monday at 2:30. We played games and had refreshments. We all enjoyed ourselves and had loads of fun.

We had movies last Tuesday about Bolivia. We had some other reels that were interesting. We kids always enjoy ourselves at the movies.

There was an amateur show at the Grade School Tuesday, Feb. 15. There was tap dancing, songs and a one-act play.

The regular monthly meeting of the P. T. A. will be held Monday, Feb. 21 at the school. The program will be in accordance with Founder's Day. A woman will speak on Japan and the boys' chorus from Allendale will sing.

Intermediate Room

This has been a rather exciting week, but now that the Valentine party is over more serious work will probably be at hand.

All have memorized poems appropriate for Lincoln and Washington. Edna Jean Barnstable was absent Thursday last week, this being the first time in two years.

Junior Miller and Betty Bartlett each won a prize in the Valentine contest.

Marilyn Tiede, Betty Bartlett, Junior Miller and Vida Haley each did a part in the Lincoln program.

Marilyn Tiede fell and hurt her arm while skating. We hope it will soon be out of the sling.

Our room had a Valentine party on Monday afternoon. Everyone had a fine time. We were very happy to have some of our mothers with us.
